

Founded on the principle of "teachers helping teachers".

The English Language Teachers' Association Berlin-Brandenburg e.V is a regional professional association for teachers of English working in the Berlin-Brandenburg area. The goal of ELTABB is to offer professional development to English language teachers. This includes:

- facilitating and encouraging networking opportunities between teachers in Berlin
- promoting contact and exchange with other ELTAs
- offering lectures and workshops on English teaching and linguistic research as well as the business skills required as a professional language teacher

The association was established in 1993 and formally registered as an association (e.V.) in early 1994. Membership has since grown to around 200 consisting of native and non-native speakers from all over the world. Members include freelance teachers working for companies and language schools, state school teachers and university lecturers, entrepreneurs who run schools and agencies, management consultants and published authors.

ELTABB is an associate member of the International Association of Teachers of English as a Foreign Language (IATEFL) based in the UK.

Membership includes:

- Free access to our workshops - see "events"
- Access to our online forum with teachers tips and lesson ideas, discussions, jobs board
- Subscription to the electronic version of ETP, the premier English Language Teaching Journal
- A mentoring scheme for new teachers
- The chance to network with other teachers and to build useful business contacts at events
- The chance to promote yourself for free on the ELTABB website
